

October 16, 2020 ♦ Virtual Program

Conversational Intelligence

Evan Roth

Executive Coach and Consultant, Roth Consultancy International, LLC

The key to success in business is to become a master at Conversational Intelligence. It's not about how smart you are, but how open you are to learn effective powerful conversational rituals that prime the brain for trust, partnership, and mutual success. Conversational Intelligence translates new insights coming out of neuroscience and brings the science down to earth so people can apply it in their everyday lives. Learn about what kind of conversations trigger the lower, more primitive brain; and what activates higher-level intelligences such as trust, integrity, empathy, and good judgment. Conversational Intelligence includes easy to use tools, examples, conversational rituals, and practices for all levels of an organization.

What is your ROI for life?

Jung Park

Entrepreneur, Strategist and Adjunct Professor, University of Colorado Denver

In a world of materialistic and financially-driven definitions of success, we struggle with allowing our own definitions and measurements of happiness. Some of us have been conditioned to believe that success is achieved through money, possessions, titles, or authority. For some, whose work is based on their passion in impact-driven sectors, one's personal needs, wants, and aspirations may conflict with creating greater impact for the community at large.

But your work is not all you are--a dollar amount, impact metric, or Chief Whatever Officer, in charge of so many people. You can determine your own definition of success, and your own path to achieving it.

I invite you to discover and define what you would like to achieve in life and show you how to strategize for and measure your own success. Let's learn how to intentionally increase the Return on Investment in life!

Blind spots: What's the most important thing to know about yourself? – what everybody else knows about you that you don't know

Carl Larson

Professor Emeritus, University of Denver

Culture is like the air we breathe... it is fundamental to every aspect of our functioning, yet normally we cannot see it, we take it for granted, and it is dynamic. In this session Professor Larson puts us in touch with one of the most far-reaching aspects of American culture of which we are normally unaware. True to Larson's style, questions and answers will drive much of the conversation. Additional concepts will be included such as Jackson's return potential model, M Wheatley's concept of aggressive disengagement, the U.N. Index of Health and Social Problems, and Larson and LaFasto's own CONNECT model.

<https://www.rihel.org/programs-training-and-events/leadership-is-for-everyone/>

