NATALIE BOYER BIOGRAPHY

Natalie Boyer, MPH, is currently Project Director for two of RMC Health's grants. She ensures all aspects of the program are administered in accordance with required specifications and oversees budget, expenditures, program deliverables, and personnel. Previously at RMC Health, Boyer was the Project Director for RMC Health's grant with the CDC Division of Adolescent and School Health to provide professional development to funded partners. Prior to RMC Health, Boyer was the Health Coordinator for a Colorado school district where she implemented a coordinated approach to school health, facilitated the district level school health advisory council, guided the health education and physical education curriculum review and revision process, and managed three school based health centers. Boyer advocated for and successfully led a community collaboration to adopt a comprehensive School Wellness Policy. Boyer has provided professional development for national organizations, state and district-level health and education staff on collaborating to improve student health and achievement.
